

GAYNOR DIRECTS COURT FIGHT AGAINST TAXICAB MONOPOLY PRIVATE STAND GRAFT GRAB

Will Demand Right to Enforce Reform Ordinance to the Letter.

TAKES SPEEDY ACTION.

Courts Are Asked to Vacate Temporary Injunction Halting New Law.

Mayor Gaynor consulted Corporation Counsel Watson today on the action to be taken by the city in court against the move of the taxicab and hotel interests which obtained an injunction yesterday preventing the city from putting the new taxicab ordinance into operation Aug. 1. The first action is to ask the court to vacate the injunction.

Argument on that day was asked for by the petitioners, the very day that, according to law, the public hackstands designated by the Mayor were to have taken the place of the so-called private stands in front of the principal hotels and the other provisions of the new ordinance were to have gone into effect.

The Mayor has personally taken hold of the situation, now that it has gone into the courts, and he and the Corporation Counsel will shape the city's case. The Mayor is indignant over the action of the taxicab companies and the hotel people and sees in the step taken an attempt to perpetuate the grab of city street space in front of hotels for the development of private interests. This he will not stand for, of course, and will back the fight for the rights of the public, and demand that the new taxicab law be enforced to the very letter. In furtherance of his plan, he is also to consult with Chief Wallace of the Bureau of Licenses, who has been planning night and day for carrying out the new order of taxicab supervision, and whose bureau has control over every vehicle offered for public hire.

IS A FIGHT TO GRAB THE PUBLIC STREETS.

Once before the taxicab companies went into court when an ordinance drawn by The Evening World seeking to reform taxicab conditions was passed by the Board of Aldermen. The lawyers for the companies argued that the rates as then laid down discriminated against a certain class of public vehicles—that one rate was charged for a horse-drawn vehicle as against a motor-driven vehicle. On this ground the court declared the ordinance. No such contention is made at this time, the lawyers having shifted to the more important one as affecting the hotel stands.

Neither the companies nor the hotel people want to lose control in that respect. There is money and plenty of it for each side with the stand monopoly in vogue. The taxicabs pay nearly $400,000 a year to the hotel people for the privilege of standing cabs in front of the big hosteleries, and in turn the companies' cabs get the cream of the patronage. In the end the users of taxicabs—the public—are compelled to dig down into their pockets to pay

12-YEAR-OLD GIRL SHOOTS HERSELF, DYING IN HOSPITAL

Susie Langenegger Was Little Housekeeper at Home While Parents Worked.

LEAVES NOTE TO MAMMA

Gives No Explanation as to Why She Should Have Fired the Shot.

Pinned inside the dress of Susie Langenegger, a twelve-year-old girl who shot herself at her home at No. 47 East One Hundred and Seventy-third street today and is dying at Fordham Hospital, the nurses who undressed her at the hospital found a bit of paper on which these words were written in her childish handwriting:

"I killed myself. Don't blame any one. I killed myself."

The little note was turned over to the police, who already had in their possession a letter addressed to the girl's mother which was found in the room where the tragedy occurred.

When Mrs. Langenegger, at work in a downtown factory, was told by a police messenger of her little girl's attempt at suicide she started uptown in frantic hurry to try to find her husband. Up to a late hour in the afternoon neither of the parents had appeared at the hospital or the police station, and it was assumed by the police that she was still looking for her husband.

President Wilson sent him his nomination to the Senate probably this week.

Under the new chief more attention will be paid to weather reports and forecasts, as they affect or are likely to affect agriculture and general farming conditions throughout the country. Prof. Marvin was born at Columbus, O., and was educated in the public schools there and at the Ohio State University.

BOY'S MURDER PUZZLES POLICE OF CHICAGO

Found Shot Dead Near a Newly Opened Grave—Former Foe Suspected of Crime.

CHICAGO, July 29.—Important clues to the identity of the persons who shot Bernie Holstein, fourteen years old, whose body was found yesterday in a dump of bushes at Morgan Park, a suburb, were discovered by the police today. Detectives worked all night on the few marks left by the murderer, which include the heel of a shoe and a silver tipped bullet found in the boy's brain. Search also is being made for an eighteen-year-old boy who three years ago bound and attacked young Holstein. At that time the boy informed his parents of what had occurred and the older boy was arrested. It is known that he swore to be revenged, and the relatives of the murdered lad think he may have carried out his threat.

The police also began a search for four negroes who were seen shooting "craps" with two white boys last Tuesday afternoon near the spot where the body was found. The coroner's physician believed the opinion that the boy was killed somewhere else and his body brought by his murderers to the spot where it was found.

Detectives at work on the case today discovered an open grave near the point where the body was found. Apparently it was dug after the boy was murdered. The police believe the murderers were frightened away before they were able to bury the corpse of the boy.

$60,000 Rope of Pearls, a Present From Her Mother, Mrs. E. H. Harriman, Missing at Narragansett Pier Cottage.

PRIVATE DETECTIVES HINT IT WAS AN "INSIDE JOB"

Young Matron Had Hidden Valuable Gems in Clothing in Drawer of Her Bureau.

Announcement was made to-day at the office of the E. H. Harriman estate that a burglar had entered the room of Mrs. C. C. Rumsey, a daughter of the late railroad magnate, at Narragansett Pier, last Sunday night or Sunday, and stolen gems valued at $73,200. Included in the loot was a rope of pearls, worth $60,000. The pearls were presented to Mrs. Rumsey by her mother on the occasion of her marriage to Charles Cary Rumsey of Buffalo at the Harriman home at Arden, N. Y., on May 26, 1910.

POLO GROUNDS, New York, July 29.—When the second game of the double-header between the Naps and the Highlanders began the bargain attraction had drawn a crowd of nearly 10,000. There was not much rejoicing, it is true, but the faithful fans took off their coats called for lemonade and gaily stuck to the ship. Heine Schulz, Chance's star left hander, was given the pitching job for the locals and was opposed by

As soon as the theft was discovered Sunday evening a message was sent from Narragansett Pier to a private detective agency in this city and half a dozen operatives were put to work on the case. No report of the robbery has been made at Police Headquarters, and C. C. Tugthoff, the manager of the Harriman estate for Mrs. E. H. Harriman said this afternoon that he believed the search for the jewels and the thief would be left entirely in the hands of the private detectives.

MRS. RUMSEY HID THE JEWELS IN CLOTHING.

Besides the rope of pearls the thief got a ruby and pearl pendant worth $5,000, a gold pin set with a magnificent ruby solitaire worth $5,000, a diamond brooch worth $2,000, and a gold mesh bag worth $1,200. The robbery was accomplished some time between 8 o'clock Saturday night and 8 o'clock Sunday night. The only room entered by the thief was that occupied by Mrs. Rumsey and the only article of furniture in the room disturbed was a dresser in which the jewels were kept.

The Rumseys live in Gunning Beach Cottage at Narragansett Pier, where they leave only to Harrison, Tugthoff, the manager of the Harriman estate for Mrs. E. H. Harriman, who were taken by Mrs. Rumsey from her town house. Mrs. Rumsey kept the gems in four pasteboard boxes in the second drawer of a dresser in her room, hidden away in clothing. The hiding place was known only to Mrs. Rumsey, as she believed she alone held the secret.

She last saw the jewels when she put them away at 8 o'clock Saturday night. She occupied the room that night, but left the house Sunday morning and was away all day. Upon her return Sunday evening she went to the dresser to take out some of the gems and found two of the pasteboard boxes and all the jewelry missing.

Mrs. Rumsey did not alarm the house. She informed her husband, and nothing was done until the detectives arrived. Then the servants were examined, without success. The sleuths searched in vain for any mark showing that entrance to the house had been gained from the outside by forcible means.

DETECTIVES BELIEVE IT WAS AN "INSIDE JOB."

According to the information received by Mr. Tugthoff, Mrs. Rumsey had immediately after the robbery, and inquiry has shown that none of them left the house during her absence on Sunday. The detectives, naturally, are working on the theory that the robbery was committed by some one who knew where Mrs. Rumsey hid her jewels, but how this knowledge was acquired is a matter that has baffled them thus far.

Mr. Tugthoff left for Narragansett Pier this afternoon. He said he had received only an outline of information about the robbery by telephone and there may have been developments today of which he knows nothing.

Mrs. Rumsey was Mary Harriman, the favorite daughter of her father, who had added confidence in her common sense and business judgment. A month after the death of Mr. Harriman his daughter Mary took a share of the extensive improvements then under way on the Harriman estate at Arden. Mrs. Rumsey was a
